2. Operating Millage Discussion

City Manager Karen Kovacs, Assistant City Manager Sean Hobbins and CFO Mary Schlicht offered a budget overview, as well as an explanation of the City's financial landscape as annual budget planning begins. They said staff will likely be asking the Commission to increase the operating millage this year, for the first time in 16 years. This possible rate change would likely take effect for the summer billing cycle in July.

Staff then led a discussion about expenditures and revenues, city budget history, local millage rates and average property values.

Commissioners then offered feedback and asked questions, with the conversation touching on outreach and education components, the ability to maintain a fund balance, ongoing brownfield projects, the impact of Michigan Tax Tribunal cases and the value of maintaining existing City services.
